Since the telecast of the Montage production "Give Us The Children" in May of 1970, WKYC-TV and Montage have received numerous requests from the viewing public to produce further shows on the education of children. The areas within the definition of this subject are limitless as are the resources and approaches. With this in mind, Montage wanted to start with the core of Education: "How do children actually learn?": "What are the natural, as well as unnatural forces involved in the learning processes?": "Is there a right and wrong way of teaching?": Etc. In an attempt to analyze these areas Montage will telecast a two-part series entitled: "HOW CHILDREN LEARN" on Saturdays January 23, and on January 30, 1971 at 6:00 P.M. The two-part series will also be repeated on Sunday evenings at 1:00 A.M., January 24, and January 31.

Noted educators and authors such as John Holt, author and educator: Anita Moses, head of the Children's Community Workshop, New York City: John Bremer, Director of the Parkway School, Philadelphia; Mother Isabel Eugenie, Director of The Assumption Montessori Training Center, Philadelphia, Pa: Paul Goodman, author and educator: Dr. Robert Docter, Member of the Los Angeles Board of Education: and Drs. Harold and June Shane, Professors of Education at The University of Indiana...contribute their philosophies on: "HOW CHILDREN LEARN".

This two-part Montage is Written and Produced by Jon Boynton: Howard Schwartz and Tony Morris are the Associate Producers; Dennis Goulden is Unit Director and Cinematographer: and, Dick Mrzena is film editor.